Note From Gala

December 10 is International Human Rights Day, the anniversary of the United Nations' signing of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights in Paris in 1948. Among the fundamental personal rights the UN wants enforced by all nations (and with which government should not interfere) are "the right to life, liberty and nationality, to freedom of thought, conscience and religion, to work, to be educated, [and] to take part in government." The introduction of these universal standards allows us to more readily act against atrocities as violations of this declaration. While there has been more and more action taken against such violations, there is still much work to be done.

The Internet offers us a powerful tool to promote activism on many levels. As access to this technology spreads, we are able to learn more about living conditions in other parts of the world. We can explore areas where change is needed, and we can share our compassion and support for freedom with others worldwide. We can communicate our concerns and demands to influential leaders with the click of a "Send" button. The acceleration toward a global community empowers the standards of protection put forth by the United Nations so many years ago.

I hope you will take a moment, on this important date in history, to express your gratitude for the rights that are protected in your life. Take this opportunity to let your voice be heard by those in power, to act on behalf of others who are not yet blessed with these freedoms. And please join us in praying and visualizing for those less fortunate, in hopes that together we can manifest the beautiful and harmonious, oppression-free world of which we dream.

FEATURED PRODUCTS

Because our focus in this issue is on changing the world and making it a better place, our featured products all support transformation and rebirth through their butterfly theme. The butterfly is a powerful, life-affirming symbol for anyone considering or experiencing major change. We hope they will inspire you and help you focus on this intent.

Hand-painted Butterfly Trunk

This box can provide you or someone close to you with positive energy and hope. While definitely a work of art, this box can also serve a practical purpose in everyday life and contribute to your personal environment as a jewelry box, desk accessory, or treasure chest...for Tarot cards, love letters, important papers, treasured pictures, or incense. 6 1/2"L x 4 1/2"W x 4 1/2"H.

Butterfly Candleholder

This handcrafted and decorative, yet functional, work of art has its own charm and character. As an iron art structure, it is created with careful attention to detail using only non-endangered materials and high-quality production techniques. 4" tall.

Cantabell Butterfly Garden Stake

The Cantabell is a small set of windchimes made with four low-pitched and expressive pipes of solid aluminum. The chimes are then hung from a weather-resistant stainless-steel stake, with an antiqued-silver, full-wing butterfly on top. With the positive energy and hope they inspire, these windchimes offer an impressive visual and musical display. The chimes come packed in an attractive, earthy gift box. 31"H.
